

compassionate and caring, just as its inhabitants.

The architecture inside is brilliant with well-furnished rooms, lots of open space coupled with beautiful scenic view from all floors and huge glass windows that bring in plenty of natural light. What takes your breath away is the ambience inside, which is so refreshing. You will be astonished to smell the fragrance of sweet lemon essence everywhere in the hospital. Interestingly, the entire décor of the hospital is cream, green and pale pink in colour. Now, this is because the hospital administration believes in creating a soothing and a happy environment for their patients. From busy emergency rooms to the day care centre, to the health check-up department; from the Shanti Sthal for relatives and recuperating patients to spacious canteen and library, everything is well designed. Moreover, the paediatric department and NICU have the most interesting décor with wall paintings and graffiti of all the Disney characters to cheer the little ones.

Since the hospital caters to people from all walks of life, rooms range from general wards to executive rooms. It also houses an internal telemedicine facility where doctors can be consulted even at their residences. In fact, Lilavati is one of the renowned institutions in India recognised for conducting Diploma of National Board (DNB) course in subjects like neurosurgery, orthopaedics, urology, medicine, paediatric, surgery, gynaecology and obstetrics and critical care.

Getting started

The hospital was born out of the dream of Lilavati Kirtilal Mehta Medical Trust in the year 1995. The dream was to build an organisation to serve humanity. Formed in 1978 by the Mehta family, the Trust has since then engaged in many charitable endeavours across India.

The establishment of Lilavati Hospital has definitely sparked a new confidence in India's ability to deliver a humane and affordable healthcare system. Due to the facilities offered and the quality of service rendered, the hospital has steadily grown in size. The facility initially started functioning with 12 beds and 50 staff members, and today the hospital consists of 326 beds including around 100 beds for ICU patients with nearly 1,800 staff members. It maintains one of the highest nurses to patient ratio in India, that is 1:5, which makes it better equipped to handle the patient's complex health condition.

Vision and mission

Based on a powerful Sanskrit inspiration, Sarve sukhi na: Bhavantu, sarve santu niramia which

Dr. V. Trevedi
Vice-President,
Lilavati Hospital and Research centre

“ From our very inception, it has been our constant endeavour to provide quality care to our patient not only in India but also internationally. In future also we will do our best to provide human care more than healthcare ” means 'let all be blissful, let all stay healthy', the hospital has focused its operation on providing quality care which truly reflects the essence of their motto 'More than healthcare, human care'. Being a centre of medical excellence where technology meets international norms, the hospital ensures that its standards are always maintained. Be it a simple treatment or a complex surgical operation, they are known to provide relief to their patients with the same zeal and attentiveness. That is why the hospital has gained popularity both among the high class as well as the poorest of the poor.

The hospital believes in investing in resources to make sure their doctors are always acquainted with the latest available technology and medical trends. Lilavati Hospital continuously endeavours to provide pre-eminent healthcare and service without any breakdowns. A reason why they keep upgrading

■ Cathlab